THE STROLL IS FINALLY HERE!
Welcome to the 16th Uptown Arts Stroll in Washington Heights, Inwood and West Harlem. The Stroll celebrates northern Manhattan’s dynamic arts and diverse cultural scene with scores of exhibits and performances scheduled from May 30th to June 30th spanning three vibrant neighborhoods, from West 135th to West 220th Street.

We thank the Sugar Hill Children’s Museum of Art & Storytelling for hosting the opening reception on Wednesday, May 30th at 6pm. The opening acknowledges this year’s honorees Kim Hamilton, Victor LaValle and Rosa Naparstek for their outstanding contributions to the arts communities of Washington Heights, Inwood and West Harlem. The Legacy Awards will also be presented to Coogan’s and Indian Road Café. Our thanks is also extended to our newest community collaborator, Ft Washington Collegiate Church, which will host the Closing reception of this year’s month-long event, in their Garden & Atrium on Wednesday, June 27th at 6pm.

Northern Manhattan will once again be the center of everything arts-related. With over 300 exhibitions and cultural events. Artists will open their workspaces and homes during open studios to the public over two packed weekends giving visitors an opportunity to see where they work, and to learn about their creative process. We are also excited to announce that, for the second year, we will celebrate ArtStrollstice on June 21st, and a special event in recognition and as a collaboration in support of the contributions that the LGBTQ community uptown gives to keeping the arts alive in upper Manhattan. Our sincerest gratitude goes to all of the arts community, venues and businesses, sponsors, donors and volunteers who made the 2018 Uptown Arts Stroll possible. Thank you, and we look forward to a successful and fun Stroll!

2018 UPTOWN ARTS STROLL KICK OFF
WEDNESDAY, MAY 30

¡LLEGÓ EL PASEO!
Bienvenidos a la 16ª edición Del Paseo de las Artes del alto Manhattan en Washington Heights, Inwood y West Harlem. El Paseo celebra las artes en el alto Manhattan y su diversa escena cultural con exhibiciones y presentaciones culturales desde el 30 de mayo hasta el 30 de junio desde entre las calles West 135th hasta West 220th Street.

Agradecemos al Museum of Sugar Hill por ser la sede de la apertura del Paseo el miércoles 30 de mayo a las 6pm. Aprovechamos para homenajear a Kim Hamilton, Victor LaValle y Rosa Naparstek y los premios Legacy a Coogan’s e Indian Road Café, por sus contribuciones al arte y la cultura en Washington Heights, Inwood y West Harlem. Queremos también agradecer al Ft Washington Collegiate Church, un colaborador nuevo y donde tendrá lugar la Clausura del Paseo el miércoles 27 de junio a las 6pm.

El norte de Manhattan volverá a ser el centro de todo lo relacionado con las artes a lo largo del próximo mes, con más de 300 exposiciones, eventos, dos fines de semana de estudios abiertos y por segunda vez ArtStrollstice (celebrando el solsticio de verano, el 21 de junio) y nuestra primera colaboración en un evento apoyando a la comunidad LGBTQ y sus contribuciones en las artes en el alto Manhattan. Nuestro sincero agradecimiento a todos los artistas locales, sedes, organizaciones artísticas, negocios, patrocinadores, donantes y voluntarios que hacen posible el Paseo de las Artes 2018. ¡Muchas gracias, y esperamos que disfruta el Paseo!

Kim Hamilton is Director of Hamilton Landmark Galleries, a contemporary art gallery operating in Harlem since 1997. A self-taught visual artist and urban farmer, Ms. Hamilton was raised to be an activist, picketing against the centralization and segregation of New York Public Schools in 1962 as a second grader with her mom and siblings. In 1992 she went on to help write Procurement Policy and Rule #52 that implemented the Minority and Women Owned Business Enterprise Program for city contract officers. Ms. Hamilton has secured work for dozens of entrepreneurs and small businesses through the South Bronx Overall Economic Development Corp programs, Medgar Evers College partnership with Bedford Stuyvesant Community Trust, and Bronx Council on the Arts Development Corp’s Art Handlers’ Training and African Burial Ground Projects.

Victor LaValle is the author of seven work of fiction and one comic book, Victor LaValle’s Destroyer. His most recent novel, The Changeling, was named one of the 10 Best Book of 2017 by Time Magazine, USA TODAY and the New York Public Library, among others. He has been the recipient of a Guggenheim Fellowship, the British Fantasy Award, the Shirley Jackson Award and many more. He teaches writing at Columbia University and lives in Washington Heights with his wife and two kids.

Rosa Naparstek’s artwork explores the emotional roots of the world we create personally and politically and the connection between art (the aesthetic experience) and its power for personal/political transformation. She present her work in conjunction with “Circles of Engagement”, a community building process she helped develop that allows participants to explore their own feelings and deepen connections with one another. Naparstek came to America as a young child, a refugee of WW II. As a student, she was a political activist and became an attorney in furtherance of social and political change. Rosa is a co-founder of the Uptown Arts Stroll, and has participated every year. She is a founder and director of Artists Unite, an arts organization which has organized the MTA-Artists Unite Subway Elevator Poster Project for ten years, the only community art project of its kind in the city.
Coogan’s owners: Peter Walsh, David Hunt and Tess O’Connor McDade

The Washington Heights equivalent of Rick’s Place in Casablanca, a neighborhood saloon with an Irish feel and a multicultural clientele. Situated on Broadway off 169th Street, Coogan’s décor and menu reflect the community’s diversity and surrounding institutions. Since 1985, politicians have broken bread and made deals and on any given day doctors in white coats sit across from workers in hard hats at lunch while actors and musicians blend with local residents to celebrate the evening.

Next door to the Armory Track, home to the National Indoor Track Hall of Fame and the Millrose Games, Coogan’s has forged a partnership that receives international attention. Peter Walsh is the founder of the Coogan’s Salsa, Blues and Shamrocks 5k run, which for 15 years has raised funds for the children running at the Armory, and along with his partners they have made Coogan’s the community center of Northern Manhattan.

Jason Minter spent 18 years in the production end of the film business, the last ten years on The Sopranos. The idea for the Indian Road Café was conceived in 2007 with his childhood friend Jason Berger. They lamented the fact that Upper Manhattan had few spaces and outlets for local artists and musicians to display and perform their work. In 2008, Minter and his friend teamed up to find an appropriate space to open an eclectic neighborhood café. For the past ten years, Indian Road Café has showcased visual and performing artists of many different mediums on the very last corner of Inwood. More than a few published books have been written within the café’s confines, and Indian Road Café has served as a set for movie, film and TV shoots. Indian Road Café was also the first (and still perhaps the only) restaurant in Inwood to source the majority of its food from farms in New York State, and organically in origin when possible.

NoMAA expresses its most heartfelt appreciation to Eduardo A. Gómez Dosado for his immeasurable as well as generous contributions to community arts, and his commitment to culture uptown. For the past ten years, Eduardo served as NoMAA’s Volunteer Webmaster. He created both the artistroll.com and nomaanyc.org websites, and maintained them tirelessly. For all this and more, he was a 2015 Uptown Arts Stroll Honoree. As he embarks new adventures close and far, we say: ¡Hasta pronto!
